MU strives to provide accessible study abroad programs that meet your academic and personal needs. With nearly 300 options, the International Center is committed to working with you to make the accommodations you need to be successful.

THINGS TO CONSIDER:

- Think about your academic and personal goals for studying abroad.
  - What courses do you want to take?
  - What type of program do you want?
  - How long do you want to study abroad?

- Research program options that might fit your goals.
  - Search for programs by type, country and subject online at international.missouri.edu/programs.
  - Research host country laws and attitudes toward persons with disabilities.
  - Research accessibility and what accommodations can be made in your host country.

- Meet with a study abroad adviser.
  - Identify yourself as a student with a disability.
  - Discuss your top two or three program choices.

- Visit the Disability Center.
  - Discuss accommodations for study abroad, including adaptive equipment, housing or transportation.

CAMPUS RESOURCE:

- Disability Center
disabilitycenter.missouri.edu | S5 Memorial Union

resources for study abroad
STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

International Center
University of Missouri
WHAT MU STUDENTS HAVE TO SAY:

“Studying abroad gave me the passion and motivation to pursue a career in international affairs. My success and choices in life can be attributed to my study abroad experiences through the University of Missouri.”

Trevor Turner
Hearing impaired
Studied abroad in Germany and Ghana

“It was tough but the experience was well worth it. I went to Japan already loving it and came back loving it more.”

Robert McEwen
Duchenne muscular dystrophy
Studied abroad in Japan

____________________________________________________

DISABILITY RESOURCES:

- Mobility International USA
  > miusa.org
- Society for Accessible Travel & Hospitality
  > sath.org
- University of Minnesota: Access Abroad
  > umabroad.umn.edu/students/identity/disabilities
- Access-Able Travel Source
  > access-able.com

____________________________________________________

international.missouri.edu/diversity

International Center
University of Missouri